GREASE MONKEY WIPES

Grease Monkey Wipes are individually-packed degreasing wipes geared towards cyclists. The non-toxic citrus based, all natural grease cleaning formula is made to handle heavy-duty cleaning, including bike grease and road grime associated with any mid-ride repair or post-ride cleanup. These durable degreasing wipes can easily clean not only skin, but oily chains and dirty frames. The lanolin and vitamin E-enhanced wipes sell for $12 per dozen. www.greasemonkeywipes.com

BIKEGLOW LIGHTS

BikeGlow Safety Light is a new product that helps make cyclists more visible to vehicles in low light and even complete darkness. BikeGlow is a completely waterproof, battery-operated light system that wraps around the frame of a bicycle. BikeGlow is powered by two AA batteries in the power unit that provides 120 hours of protection when set to a flashing mode, and 50 hours when set for constant illumination. $24.95 www.bikeglow.com

GIRO SHOES

Longtime helmet maker Giro is behind one of the breakout products for 2011 with the introduction of a full line of road and mountain bike shoes. The four model road line includes a women's specific shoe, plus the $280 Factor (above), which is available in three different colors. The lightweight shoes feature Easton carbon soles. Look for a complete test in the next issue. www.giro.com

DANNYSHANE JERSEYS

DannyShane jerseys are made from a blend of bamboo white ash and an artificial microfiber, which yields a comfortable and unique texture. Part of DannyShane's "Retrospective Race" line, the Black Turin jersey retails for $119, and the Tinsley Limited jersey, part of their "Tartan Performance" line, retails for $139. Both jerseys feature a full-length front zipper, rubberized waist gripper and three taper-cut rear pockets, plus an additional back zip pocket designed for an MP3 player or communication device. Both jerseys are available in sizes small to x-large. www.dannyshane.com
